RIVER RISES FAST AFTER STEADY RAIN.

Goes Up 7 Feet in 24 Hours and Is Still Going Higher.

PRECIPITATION IS CONTINUING

lardly Letup in Downfall of Wetness During Past 36 Hours and End is Not in Sight-Farmers Welcome the

The Youghlogheny river rose seven feet within 24 hours and is still rising as a consequence of the unusual rainfall that has marked the past 36 hours. During the 21 hours from early yesterday morning until the same time this, there was scarcely a letup in the downpour and of the 21 hours that clapsed there was hardly 60 min-ules during the time that were devoid of rain. Records for August during the recent years do not include a stendy rain such as has visited the coke region this week. The month this year has been particularly wet, but it is the continuity of the down-pour that makes it unusual.

The river was at a 9 foot stage this morning and the gauge indicated that it was still right. It is reaching a flood stage and s sweeping before it the accumulated filth and sewage that Quickly Explodes Story of the Other gathers during the low water periods. From a sanitary standpoint the rise in the river is an excellent thing, par-ticularly at this time, while at Pittsburg and points below the Youghteghony it is helping the Obio maintain a boating stage and coal is now be-ing moved without difficulty. No Rain at Oakford Fark During the Afternoon, 'Tis Said.

LOTS OF FUN OVER CONTESTS

Between 500 and 600 Were in Attendance and Enjoyed Themselves to the Utmost-Record Attendance Expected Tomorrow.

Despite the fact that it rained here steadily yesterday afternoon there was practically no rain at Oakford Park, vere between 500 and 600 employes of the West Penn Railways Company and affillated corporations were holding the first day of their annual two-day outling. After the moon hour the showers ceased in the vicinity of Oakford and while the sky remained overcast, it was not unpleasant out of doors. Those employes and families who braved the rain of the coke region were rewarded with fairly good weather at the park and it was not until the homeward trip was well under way that it began raining again. That is, the picnickers ran into the rain south of Greensburg, which had not let up in this section.

Volimple in the Elbow.
Women who went to Paris this summer had the pleasure of seeling the Stephanic elbow. Stephanic is an actress, and the cibow is seen to best advantage when she is dining or sup-ping at a smart restaurant. Stephanic's chief charm is her elbow. Your first impression is that it is very pretty in shape. Then comes a filmpse of a shapely arm with a gleam of ivery white skin, and finally you see the dimple in the cibow. Whether her arm is straight or bent or Ising long and graceful in her lap, the dimple is there. It is not a thing that depends upon position. The dimple is a fixture, and all who pass ste-planio's table can ree it. It is deep and pink, alluring and pretty.

It was an American woman who first tried to get a dimple like it.

PILLMAKING CRABS.

Queer Way These Tlay Creatures Get

Curious little crabs, mostly about the size of a pea, are found in abundance on the shores of the Malay peninsula. They are usually first perceived on the beaches after the going down of the tide, when they give the beach the appearance of being covered with loose, powdery sand and hotes of various sizes. Upon looking more closely it is perceived that little radi-ating paths converge among the litter of sand to each hole and that the sand immediately becomes apparent a pe-cultar "twinkte," which is nothing clas-than the simultaneous and rapid re-treatest a multitude of the tiny crubs

The great success of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in ouring weak stomachs, wasted bodies, weak lungs, and obstinate and lingering coughs, is based on the recognition of the fundamental truth that "Golden Medical Discovery" supplies Nature with body-building, tissue-repairing, muscle-making materials, in condensed and ouncentrated form. With this help Nature supplies the necessary strength to the stomach to digest food, build up the body and thereby throw off lingering obstinate coughe. The "Discovery" rz-establishes the digestic and nutritive organs in sound health, purifies and enriches the blood, and nourishes the nerves—in short establishes sound vigorous health.

If your dealer offers something "fust as good," It is probably better FOR Hilbi---it pays better. But you are thinking of the cure not the profit, so there's nothing "fust as good" for you. Say so.

Elephants, as most young people in their native jungles frequently seek the rivers and lakes to enjoy a water frolic. Down at Coney Island the pachyderms take a swim in the surf and greatly enjoy buffeting the salt billows. When bathing at the beach the huge beasts are accompanied by trainers, who sit on their necks and guide them from the water when their time is up. This is necessary, for they are show animals and must be in their places when the performance begins. If left to themselves they would probably forget all about their engagements. The elephant in the picture is Hattie, the famous performing ele-phant in the Central Park 200. The photographer caught her as she was getting her daily bath from a hose. Her expression shows she is enjoying it hugely.

An Old Timer.
Turtles are one of a few kinds of aninnis that live longer than men do.
They look their age too. A turtle that had a date mark on him, though not the date of his arrival in the world. was found a few days ago in New York, not far from Poughkeepsie, where the boat races are held on the Hudson river in the early summer. The turtle, which was a land tortoise, was found by David B. Sleight, who lives on the farm where his father lived for many years. On the turtle's back, but in the years. On the turties neer, but in the hard shelt, Mr. Sleight found his father's initials, A. W. S., and the date 1854, cut deeply and still plainly visible. He added his own initials and the date and turned the little creature loose to live perhaps until another gen-eration of Sleights come along.

A Bathtub by the Sea. A few miles below Delmar, Cal, there may be seen in a rocky ledge a poculiar basin cut out of solid rock. It measures 6 by 4 feet and its depth is about five feet. At high tide the basin is filled; at low, it and the surrounding rock ledge are laid bare. Above the basin are gutters, which allow the escape of surplus waters. It is supposed that the bath was used by the Indians in early times and that they heated the sea water by means of heated stones. It is not improbable that the sick redskins obtained relief illes below Delmar, Cal., from skin diseases and other ills by buths in the hot salt water of this po culiar basin.

It is quite well made and shapely and would have been very convenient for such a purpose,

A waiter in Seattle, not long ago, was found to be a foreign officer in disguise, while an American ambassador in a foreign country notified the State Department a few mouths ago that a certain centain of a foreign army had been detailed to spend three years in the United States, making secret studies of our defenses.

The most startling instance was when an Englishman picked up a small package on the streets of Calcutta, and discovered that it contained blueprints showing every detail of the fortifications at Corregion. No cite was ever found to the identity of the man who had lost them, and the War Department is still in complete innorance as to how the prints were obtained.

Interesting Showing of New

Autumn Suits

New Tailored Effects in Most Authoritative Styles Now Await You.

Come and see what the new season has in store for the woman who is a bit particular about her dress. See the newest things in vogue and at the same time compare prices. Take special notice to the superb tailoring of our garments and the fine style lines, even of our lowest priced suits, which will insure their shapliness until the last day of active service.

Materials are beautiful and of the best. They are mostly storm and French Serges, fine Broadcloth, Cheviots, Diagonals and heavy novelty weaves in blacks, browns, blues, greys and mixtures, made in strictly tailored styles for practical wear, and others handsomely trimmed with touches of braid, velvet and buttons. Coats are 28 and 30 inches long and skirts a trifle fuller with knee side pleats, panels in front or back and some with loose panels. We invite you to come and inspect our lines and will gladly acquaint you with the newest style features of the

New Fall Coats

Our showing of these this season offers a wider range of styles and materials than of any season of the past. Anticipating a big coat season, we bought heavier and hence our showing is very complete. Styles show an absence of fullness which characterize all garments this season. They are full length, loose fitting and made of fancy mixtures, single and double faced materials, Serges, Cheviots, Broadcloths, ets., in plain tailored styles, and novle effects. Large storm collars, gauntlet cuffs, contrasting materials and slight button effect are pronounced features of the season. The early buyer has the advantage of the choice of the season's ideas.

With the taking up of the plan for the new bullding, it was hoped that Mr. Schantz would take other employment in Scottdale and would be here to take the directorship when it opens in the new building.

Opening of School,

The Scottdate and East Huntingdon township High Schools open for the term next Monday, and will hold all day assions. It has been customary in the past to assign the lessons, give out the books and attend to such other details and then dismiss for the rest of the day. This year, nowever, the teachers and pupils will see no tapering off of vaction, but will be plunged right into school. There have been a good many improvements made about the buildings during the vacation, in the Pittsburg street building a sant tary drinking fountain and a wash-basin have been installed on the sec-end floor. A santary scap fountain has also been put in, illed with liquid soap, so that in washing their hands the teachers and pupils will run no risk of contagion. Rest rooms have been opened in a way and a cot and rug have been placed in each build-ing. has spoken, and it is in favor of the readers of The Courier. As could have been foretold, the BOOK TRUST has gotten busy and is making Herculean efforts to put a quietus on the publishers of Webster's New Standard Dictionary Illustrated by endeavoring to induce them to enter the combine. So active have they been that their last offer was way up in the thousands to get control of this greatest of all dictionaries. Out-of-Town Readers

Must Send 22c Extra To Cover Special Delivery Charges

Out-of-town readers should mail orders early. There has been such a tremendous influx of orders from every town, city and hamlet that we are literally snowed under. Let us implore our out-of-town readers to mail orders early and thus give our working force a chance to sleep.

On one side of us the bank fell away with such precipitancy that when we once succeeded in dragging our load to the edge, we experienced no dim-culty in sending it crashing down-ward. The body plunged through the thick underbrush at the bottom of the oggro, where I knew it would be com-pletely hidden, even in the giare of daylight, from the apping eyes of any troopers riding hard upon our track. As we rapidly worked on this disagreeable task, I thought and planned; two horses and three riders—one of those a woman in need of protection —a dispatch to be delivered by daylight, at all hexards. It was indeed a difficult proposition, and I saw only a single possible solution. One of our number must press on; two of us must remain behind. Which one? what two? If I rode with the dispatch (and how easerly I longed to do so!) and succeeded in bringing Lee's misseare rate to Longatrect, it meant much to me-promotion, dis-tinction, honor. On the other hand, if I remained behind, and Craig sue censfully carried out the duty which had been especially intrusted to me. I should be fortunate indeed to escape with a reprimend instead of more ac-rious consequences. If failure result-ad, it meant certain and deserved disgrace. Yet I could absolutely trust him with the dispatch; he was a sol-dier, and would faithfully perform a soldier's duty. More, he would carry the message with even greater cer-tainty than I, for he knew the reads

To the right of where we stood the ground sloped rapidly downward until the dense darkness at the foot of the steep defile shrouded everything from view. The descent appeared rocky and impracticable, and I could rocky and impracticable, and I contided in the first state of the sound of rapid water to weaken from the atrain, my eyes far below. On the opposite side stood in dense wood, the outer frings of trees overhanging the road, and through the waving loaves the moon in foot of my face, singeing my fore-light checkword the ground with all yer, while the dense mass beyond seemed to flow back up the steep side of the mountain, thick with under-likeling together like cops of steel. Then he attified an fell prone brush. Just below us, and possibly flity feet from the highway, I could perceive a small ore-story log cable, as slicat, glocay, and described to all outward appearance as were the som-ber woods of which it formed a part.

"There seems small choice," I said, speaking as cheerfully as possible. "But I propose to investigate the log hut you'der, and learn if it may not

She followed.

She followed me in allegee across the road to the spot derignated, but as I turned to leave her seated upon the grass, and well protected from prying eyes, she burried quickly after me, and in her agitation so far forgot her-self as to touch my slessy with her band

"Oh, please do not leave me here I am not naturally timid, yet everything is so gloomy I cannot stand it. Let me go with you, if you must

"Most assuredly you shall if you desire," I returned beartily.
There appeared before us a dim, iittic-used path leading in among the trees, and following its orratio curves might listen for any possible sound within, I could hear her quick broathlog, as though the terror of the moment had driven all else from her mind. The wooden jutch yielded readily enough to my pressure, and pushing wide open the door, which created slightly upon its rusty hinges, I stepped across the puncheon throshold onto the hard carthen floor. There was no window visible, and the slight reflection of moonlight which crept in through the doorway scarcely re-vealed the nature of that dark inter-for. I could dimly perceive what I believed to be a table directly in front of me, while certain other indistinct and ill defined shadows might be chairs pushed back against the wall. At least this room was without occupants; yet it was with every sense alert that I entered, pressing slowly past the table toward where I felt the firepines would naturally be, knowing that my companion was yet with me, her hand clutching my arm.
"Ch!" she cried sharply in terror, what was that?" It was something certainly—a dead-lier voice trembled as she spoke.

"He merely supposed there would in our trant followed by a strange noise of scraping, as if with a dull coccessor coccessor ably it is nothing more dangerous than a rat."

I felt my way carefully around the table, a revolver ready in my hand, There was nothing to be found there—nothing, indeed, in the room; for from my now position I could look backward and distinguish in the moonlight the details of that simple, squalid interior. I ran my hands along the rough logs of the further wall. Ay! here was a break, doubtless a door; and grouing along the less a door; and groping along the crack I found the latch.

There was no longer any noise audible, and I drew the door inward, audible, and I drew the door inward, never dreaming of danger. Suddenly, with a flerce, wild spring out of the dark, a buge body harled itself directly at my throat, artising with such bendleng impotus that I went back ward as if shot, crashing against the table, then to the floor, dropping my wospoi as I fell. There was no noise, no sound, while for an instant, with strength of above desperation, I held back the enapping Jawa that breathed hot fire into my very face. With a bound backward of its great body the teast jerked free from my grip, and the pext instant bad sunk its dripping the pext instant and such its dripping fangs, deep and hard, into the flesh of my shoulder. As the intense pain safet through me, my right hand, driven with all the force I could muswolce as she cried impulsively:

"Oh, no! Not that!"

"Your words yield me new heart," I replied forvently, determined, now that fee was partially broken, to pertighter those clinched faws locked, talt no excuse for its again forming, until it seemed as if every bone be "for if you but once fully realize our tween them must be ground to pow

She must have heard, but there was no response, slibough her crying ceased. Yet my own struggle to rid myself of that crushing weight and those from laws drowned all other sounds, drove all other thoughts from me. Every muscle of my body began to weaken from the strain, my eyes biurred, faintness swept over me, I clicking together like cone of stoel. Then he stiffened and fell prone across me, a dead, inert weight, pinning me breathless to the floor.

For the moment I could do no more than lie there helpless, gasping for breath, scarce conscious even of my deliverance. Then, as sufficient strength returned for action, I rolled the body of the dead brute off me, and lifting myself by aid of the walf against which my head rested, looked about. Two broken chairs overturned upon the floor, and the shapeless, huddled body of my late assailant, plone spoke of the violence of that alone apoke of the florence of that dendly struggle; but the cabin was yet full of smoke, and I could per-ceive the figure of the girl leaning against the frame of the open door, the revolver still grasped in her hand, Her posture was that of a frightened deer, as her terror-filled eyes sought the dark interior. "It is safely over," I said weakly,

WRIGHTS MAY CONTROL AIR.

Their Suits Hit Nearly Every Acroplane Maker.

INJUNCTIONS SOUGHT

Letest Legal Step Also Includes-Ma-Jurity of Aviators-Protecting Various Patents-Situation Compilested From a Legal Point of View.

Firing machine suits are again coming to the fore. The Wright brothers have begun a wholesale injunction campaign that, besides the original parties to the Wright sults, now inchides the Moisant aviators, Reco Simon, Bono Barrier and Audemars, Tom Sopwith, the Englishman, who is now flying a Farman in this country: Jos Frisbie, two of the Molant managers and some aviators in Detroit.

Those who are interested in the fixing machine litigation will remember that suits have been brought by the Wright brothers against Glenn Curties. Chudo Grahame-White, Louis Paulhan and others. These miles are set for trial in New York state and city at the October term of the courts.

The legal aspect of the flying machine situation seems to have been lost sight of by the general public because so many people were flying ap-parently without let or hindrance from the Wrights. But the wide extension of the Wright suits will again call atof the Wright suits will again call at-tention to the fact that the basic claims of the Wrights have never been adjudicated. If they are settled in favor of the Wrights it will mean practically the whole dying business of the world is in the bands of the Wright company unless somebody ap-pears with a type of dying machine about which nothing is even suspected now.

French Makera Sued. Wilbur Wright has been abroad all summer giving testimour for the proscountry are not precisely Wright suits.
The pateats of the Wright brothers were sold to a syndiente in France, and in defense of their claims to the control of the air this syndiente has sued all the French aeroplane makers arenot the Volsies. The foreign was except the Voisins. The foreign ma-chines such as the Bierfot and the Antoinette boility use the warping wines identical with those developed by the Wright brothers. There are a score of other French manufacturers who use allerons for interni balancing or some other substitute for actual warping. The Volsins have never used either contrivance, balencing their machines by the rear rudder, so they are out of the field of fire.

The Preach court after bearing Wilbur Wright held that the Wright decommission and gave it a year in the property of the property the field with a motor driven machine, and whether the old patents will be regarded as inoperative by the French court is not known.

The German courts, on the other hand, have already established a prec-edent by deciding the first suit in favor of the syndicate that bought the German patents from the Wrights.

German patents from the Wrights. In this country the matter has been very open. Curties, Grahame-White and Paulhan had been sued, and there was a general disposition to await the result of these trials as biaring the way for action in the other cases the Wrights might start were they successful. In the meantime, however, the Wrights had got one other manefacturing company in this country to accept a license from them, and they have stated that the new sults are besides the country and they have stated that the new sults are besides to the country to accept a license from them, and they have stated that the new sults are besides ample room is to be available. Mr. Stefansson left New York city ing brought to give their licensee the abloworth of his money.

Another Patent Involved. But the situation in this country is further complicated than by the advecto claims of "allerous" and "wing warping." In the background there is another patent that may any time play an important part in the litiga-tion. It was issued in 1903 to Professor J. J. Montgomery of California, was born in Plymouth eighty-three Montgomery is a man well known in the neronnutic world. His patent was followed the sea. The Montgomery machine was deacribed as far back as 1803, when the aeromatical congress was held in Chicaro, and there were public exhibitions of the machine used as a glider in California in 1905. What will happen if this fresh complication is injected into the flying machine legal conterversy it is hard to say. Even if an adjudication of the pat-

"The Nest Egg" is Mighty Funny

"The Nest ligg" certainly had the audience at the Solsom theatre going last evening. It wasn't a particularly large audience and it doesn't help the receipts that those who were there enjoyed themselves to the limit, but just the same the play was worth while. It is too early in the season for big houses, and the night was against the show, anyway.

Zelda Sears, who created the role of Hetty Gundy, had nothing on Lois before Clark whose developments and the season of the

Frances Clark, whose clover pertrayal of the "old maid" part won instant favor. The women of the audience had their innings during the first act, for they were able to appreciate the humer of Hetty Gandy's mistakes in promunciation during the dresmaking scene. It was beyond the men folks, who seemed somewhat out of place with every woman in the home laughing until tears came. Before the play ended, howeve, the men were enjoying it all without needing further dia-grams for the jokes, Anne Caldwell, the authoress who perpetrated "The Nest Egg," threatens to cellpse Alice Hegan Rice, whose "Mrs. Wiggs" is a national character. Hetty Gundy's epigrams were as home ly and philosophical as any by the he roise of the Cabbage Patch.

It must be confessed that Miss Clark was the whole performance. The other members of the company perform ed their parts well, but were cellpad at all times Hetty Gandy was on tho stage. It isn't an easy matter to make an old maid so attractive the audience lintes to have her off the stage a moment, but Lois Frances Clark proved a plarticularly attractive "old maid," while her rapid-fire dialogue with who ever happened to be on stage with her kept the audience laughing inces-santly. Incidentally Miss Clark ex-hibited some decidedly clever emotional acting which deserved a more appreciative reception than it receiv-ed. It came following a series of particularly humorous quips and the audience insisted upon regarding the pathos as part of the joke. It was emotion work that brought the hint of tears to the eyes of the more appre-clative and was added testimony to the versatility of the star.

You Will Find:

Many unusual opportunities to purchase apparel at really low prices—in these, the closing days of summer stuffs.

We know nothing by which you can test this store to better advantage than by the things it will pay well to buy now for next summer.

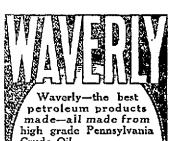

And there are other economics, too.

You will find them among the Men's apparel, Shoes, Basement wares and in the New Carpet Room on the sixth floor. The summer season is ending and small remainders must pass quickly.

But perhaps you are more anxious to see the new things to learn what fashion has decreed for Fall in fabrics, in suits, in footwear, in the whole world of wear when new is the last word.
